

IMTA WEBINAR SERIES

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23 | 10:00 - 11:00 AM

FUEL COMPLIANCE AND THE MOTOR CARRIER INDUSTRY

KEVIN KILLPACK, FUEL COMPLIANCE OFFICER, INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

In this presentation you will learn about our fuel distribution system and the taxes associated with it. Taxes collected on these fuels are a vital part of every state's revenue base, providing funding for our transportation systems. The IRS employs Fuel Compliance Officers to conduct fuel inspections to protect this revenue source. The presentation aims to educate everyone involved in the fuel supply chain, including end users, about the relevant tax laws, particularly those concerning dyed fuel, and the responsibilities of Fuel Compliance Officers. Our goal is to encourage voluntary compliance through education and awareness. A question and answer period will be included at the conclusion of the presentation.

KEY DISCUSSION POINTS

- » What is a Fuel Compliance Officer, FCO.
- » How might I come into contact with a FCO.
- » Fuel taxation - State and Federal.
- » What does fuel compliance and noncompliance look like?
- » Why fuel compliance is important.
